

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Esters containing conjugated linoleic acids are used to stimulate release of cellular AA, cellular production of prostacyclin (in cells such as endothelial cells) and formation of thromboxane A<sub>2</sub> (in cells such as platelets or endothelial cells or in a subject organism, preferably a mammal).